WHAT PAUL HARRIS SAID:

"This is a lovely world in which we live. I do not know how it could be improved upon. The scenery is wonderful; there are mountains and plains, rivers, lakes and sea-shore, according to one's taste. There is a wide range of climate. One may choose between the tropics, temperate, or arctic zones. The four seasons give us kaleidoscope changes; each has its special charm. There are flowers in endless variety of color and perfume, and birds in all seasons fill the air with song. It is a great heritage to all of the members of our family of nations. Everything has been arranged for us with consummate skill and friendly thoughtfulness. The rains fall and then the sun shines. The creator might have gone right on and made the regulation of this snug little world of ours automatic, so that it would not have been necessary for us to even push a button or turn on a switch in order to create goodwill and preserve order. But it was not destined to be. Something ought to be left for us to do. If a kind friend were to deed us a house and lot, we would not consider it a hardship to have to keep it clean and in order. There is not so very much left for us to do, yet that little is of infinite importance. It is left to us to keep this snug little world of ours in decency and order.

Message to 193 5 RI Convention
Mexico Cit, Mexico

"Abraham Lincoln's use of humor is one of his most enduring traits to be sure. Once he was on the circuit on a frosty cold night. He came in to the inn to find all the other lawyers on circuit already occupying the places closest to the fire. The inn keeper asked, 'Cold enough for you Mr. Lincoln?' 'Yes', he replied, 'Cold as Hell. And the same as there, too, as all the lawyers are closest to the fire.'

WOMEN ROTARIANS
IT WAS IN 1987, a U.S. Supreme Court ruling caused Rotary International to open its doors to women. Since then the number of women in Rotary has grown tremendously. I believe Barb recently said that our club membership is 50 % women. Maybe that's where the saying comes from, "The better Half". That can't be far off!!!! Now, maybe I can be back in good graces with our current lawyer president.

"People are often unreasonable and self-centered. Forgive them anyway.

If you are kind, people may accuse you of ulterior motives. Be kind anyway. If you are honest, people may cheat you. Be honest anyway.

If you find happiness, people may be jealous. Be happy anyway.

The good you do today may be forgotten tomorrow.

Do good. Give the world the best you have and it may never be enough. Give your best anyway.

For you see, in the end, it is between you and God. It was never between you and them anyway."

- Mother Teresa of Calcutta

"War does not determine who is right -- only who is left."

Bertrand Russell, born on this day in 1872
