MOUNT LAMBORN:

"Mt. Lamborn was named for ROBERT H. LAMBORN, a vice president and one of the original directors of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad. It is assumed that this honor was a sort of thank-you note to the D&RG when the railroad arrived in 1902 and brought a certain measure of commercial viability to the valley. Another equally likely scenario that I have heard is that the railroad surveyors themselves named the mountain. Surveyors always need a nice high stationary point to work from."

This from THE NORTH FORK VALLEY CHRONICAL back in 1993. There probably still is a set of large pictorial books concerning building the RR to the NF Valley in our library...very interesting.
